

Bio - Blurb -

Shane is an incredibly entertaining and engaging speaker, emcee, presenter and performer. As a speaker coach and speaker – he brings to the stage boundless energy, enthusiasm, and large servings of funny and relatable stories and humour to keep your crowd engaged while they learn from him. Through story and relatable content, Shane really makes sure that your audience learns while having a fantastic time.

As an active contributor to Policing Insight in the United Kingdom and possessing over 30 years of knowledge and experience in policing, teaching, IT, business ownership, change management as well as performing and directing live theatre, Shane knows what it takes to lead, work in many and varied cultures and spark creativity in all of us.

Actively involved in the Performing Arts community, As well as the Drive presenter on West Bremer Radio in Ipswich, Shane has undertaken lead roles in many sell-out productions. These include One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest and Dial M for Murder. He has also directed several equally successful shows including A Few Good Men and The 39 Steps. Shane is a mentor to other actors and performers. As a speaker coach, he delivers workshops on presentation skills, vocal, acting and storytelling techniques.

His specific areas of expertise include:

- Speaker Coaching on stagecraft, performance and storytelling
- Professional Speaking and Emcee Work
- Corporate Characters & Entertainment
- Character Acting & Performance
- Tactical Communication

He is a highly skilled communicator specifically in respect of negotiation, mediation and workshop facilitation. With over 26 years of policing experience including operating as a qualified prosecutor, investigator, and lecturer, Shane can tackle any event. With degrees in Education, Training and postgraduate qualifications in Management, he has consulted to the Queensland Police Service Education and Training Command and TAFE Queensland in respect of curriculum and educational design.